

North Carolina Association of Insurance Professionals
71st Annual Convention
Saturday, October 27, 2012
CPIW/CPIM/CIIP Awards Luncheon

Council Director, Angela McClure, welcomed everyone to the Awards Luncheon.

The invocation was given by Janet Crosscup, President Elect.

After lunch, speaker was Pastor Randall Baldwin, of "Divine Restoration", was introduced by Council Director McClure.

Sharyn Clark, NCAIP Public Relations Chairman, had advised that we would undertake a project called "Above and Beyond" to help the homeless for 2012-2013. Pastor Baldwin's group offers assistance to the homeless in the Guilford County area. After he spoke, backpacks, we collected filled with staples for the homeless, were given to him to provide to homeless individuals that had need. A collection was taken from those attending the luncheon and given to the ministry to use as well.

Alice Keeton, of the Greensboro Insurance Professionals, conducted a Memorial Service in honor of those deceased members we lost this year.

Jeanne Hess, NCAIP Education Chairman, introduced the new CPIW/CPIM/CIIP designees and the group participated together in reading the "Code of Ethics". Council Director announced that a donation has been made to the NCAIW Endowed Scholarship in honor of all CPIW/CPIM/CIIP's. All DAE's also were recognized.

Billie Sleet, Ambassador for IAIP Education Foundation, presented her report.

The presentation of the NCAIP Excellence Awards for 2012-2013 was made by Council Director McClure as follows:

Category A- 10 Members and under - Randolph Association

Category B – 11 to 25 Members - High Point-Thomasville Association

Category C- Over 25 Members - Greensboro Association

No submissions were received this year for Claims Professional of the Year, Professional Underwriter of the Year or Risk Management Professional of the Year. Other individual awards were presented as follows:

- 2012 Rookie of the Year - Brandi Lightener, Charlotte Association
- 2012 Professional of the Year - Beth Wilkerson, Durham Association

The Individual Excellence Award is given to honor a member who has served both their local association and NCAIP. The Excellence Award for 2012 was presented to Roberta Clodfelter, of the High Point-Thomasville Association.

Sharyn Clark presented the CWC Award that is sponsored by Johnson & Johnson. The Award was presented to Teresa Fanning, of the Raleigh Association.

After final announcements were read by Secretary, Roberta Clodfelter, Council Director McClure dismissed everyone to take part in the activities scheduled for the afternoon and the banquet in the evening. Thanks were expressed to all who attended the 71st annual NCAIP Convention.

Roberta Clodfelter, CPIW, CISR
Secretary